Rich. We look forward to it. We will work on an agenda. Very happy this is happening.

Glenn-

We would be pleased to host the meeting again in Annapolis. I have already put in a request for beautiful weather that day with our NOAA colleagues so we can enjoy lunch outside on the Annapolis waterfront.

We will make arrangements for lunch (sorry, still no free lunch from your EPA colleagues, but we will provide for coffee and calorie free things that look like donuts and bagels).

Two recommendations in advance of our next meeting.

- Would be great if you could take the lead on drafting up an agenda for the meeting. Let's set ourselves to take the next big steps working collaboratively. I will share some ideas on the agenda from my Bay Program colleagues.

- Let's we follow through on at some of the actions coming out of our April meeting before we get back together again.

Thanks, Rich

July 27th it is! Bay office like last time. 8:30--until ?

Lisa: Do you want to see if this works with your contacts at USGS and ARS.
If it does not, we will still go ahead with the 27th.

Doug & Chris,

FYI - likely date for the next meeting with the CEAP/Bay Modeling group. I think both Lee and Bob need to be there. The first session went well in terms of the technical staffs appreciation/acceptance of the CEAP approach/methodology. With the TMDL push and the likelihood that we will have some early CEAP results for the Chesapeake by then I'm not sure what direction this meeting will take.

The 27th would let Lee travel on a Monday. If the 27th is good with Lee we will go with that.

Glenn and colleagues-

Apologies for the delay in sharing our available dates--had to track down some folks for their respective schedules! All the key participants from the Bay Program Office are available on July 27, 28 and 29 (after 2PM). If the 28th is not available, we would prefer July 27 as the best day for the meeting.

We are willing to host the meeting in Annapolis with that guaranteed view of the Annapolis harbor or we can travel to another location hosted by our NRCS colleagues, your choice

Thanks, Rich

Glenn: Just letting you know (since we haven't set a specific date yet for our meeting the week of July 26th) that I am now not [likely] available on the 28th of July (Wednesday).

I have been invited to speak about CEAP at the Maryland Assoc. of Soil Conservation Districts meeting that day in Solomon's Island, though I don't know the specific time yet.

Please let me know as soon as you and Rich have a date set for our CEAP-Bay modeling meeting so I can block the time on my calendar.

Thank you,
